STRIKERS SHOW UNBROKEN RANK

Starting of the Clark Mills is Ridiculed by Schaffer.

GOMPERS ON DECK

Another Mill Started at Pittsburg With Non-Union Men This Morning.

SCHWAB LAYS PLANS

Pittsburg, August 8.—There have not been any defections from the strikers' ranks as far as can be learned, but notwithstanding this fact the managers of some of the trust mills have been successful in placing portions of their plants in operation. The success of the management of opening the Clark mill was a great surprise to workmen and the throngs of strikers who gathered to discuss the situation were greatly chagrined.

Shaffer does no take the starting of the Clark mill seriously. He says there is a great difference between throwing coal into a furnace to make smoke and operating a mill with skilled hands.

Another mill was started here this morning with non-union men.

Samuel Gompers arrived here this morning.

Want Chinese Exclusion

New York, August 8.—The American Federation of labor has issued an appeal to the people of the United States to assist the organization in securing the passage by congress of a rigid Chinese exclusion act.

Bishop Ireland Active

New York, August 8.—Archbishop Ireland, who has been here several days endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the steel strike, according to a close personal friend, who says that the archbishop will soon visit McKinley in the interest of the steel workers. The archbishop, it is said may see Morgan again this evening or tomorrow.

SCHWAB IS IN COMMAND

Battle Plans of the Steel Trust to Fight Strike Are All Ready

Pittsburg, Pa., August 8.—The battle plans of the steel trust are all made and down on paper and plant managers have been appointed to carry out the details. President Schwab is the commander in chief in the fight. He has made the plans and they will be carierd out under his directions. Morgan will do the financeering, but Schwab will lead on the field.

In the first place the trust will make no overtures to the strikers unless the temper of the directors changes radically between this and Saturday night. The trust is ready and anxious for the struggle. No effort will be made to coax or prevent the union men in the various mills from going out. The fact is, the trust wants them to go out.

Schwab's Strike Plans Made

When the strikers have their full force out, when, in the opinion of the trust they have reached their limit, Commander in Chief Schwab will begin his work. This is the plan:

Next week some of the tin plate mills will be started up. These mills will probably be outside of the Pittsburg district. Men will be obtained somewhere, by hook or by crook, and the mills will open suddenly, just as the Clark mill opened here. Following the tin plate mills the sheet steel mills will be opened.

Other mills in various parts of the country will be opened also. If full forces cannot be obtained enough men will be hired to start a part of the mill.

Will Look to the Militia

These movements will be made in different parts of the country. No attention will be paid to the strikers. If there is any rioting or any fracture of the law the trust will promptly call upon the militia for protection. It is the opinion of the trust that inside of six weeks enough mills will be running thoroughly to break the force of the strike and defeat the Amalgamated association. Then every mill owned by the United States Steel corporation will be declared non-union forever.

An unlimited amount of money has been placed at he disposal of President Schwab for the carrying out of this plan. Every steel trust man is confident of its success.

TWO BOYS MURDER A YOUNG WOMAN

Wheeling, W. V., August 8.—John Cline and Clayton Rogers were arrested here today on the charge of having murdered May Yost, a 17-year old girl. The warrant was sworn out by her father, who declares that the young men forcibly abducted the girl, assaulted her, and after killing their victim, threw the body into the Ohio river to conceal the crime. The girl was taken from the company of her sweetheart, Walter Hammond, on Sunday night at the point of a revolver. He positively identifies the two young men. The girl's body has not yet been found.

Crispi Growing Weaker

Naples, August 8.—Crispi has had another turn for the worse and his heart is growing weaker.

WOMAN PROMISED $100,000.

Allegations in the Minnie Healy Mine Case in Montana.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 8.—A great mass of affidavits made by persons who allege that they know the habits of Judge E. W. Harney was presented yesterday in an effort by the Amalgamated Copper company to prove that the judge decided the big Minnie Healy mine case in favor of E. Augustus Heinze because Mrs. Ada H. Brackett, a woman in the employ of the Heinze people, influenced him to do so. The chief evidence is furnished by Miss E. L. Walters and J. W. Waters, who had been on intimate terms of friendship with both Judge Harney and Mrs. Brackett. Both evidently made confidants of Miss Walters and Mr. Waters. The parties were guests at the Butte hotel before and subsequent to the trial of the Minnie Healy case and about that time Judge Harney gave his decision by which he gave a $10,000,000 property to Heinze upon the payment by him of $54,000 to the Amalgamated company's representative in the case. Miss Walters and Mr. Waters testified that Mrs. Brackett told them repeatedly that she was in the employ of Heinze and John McGinnis, Heine's chief manager, and that McGinnis had promised her $100,000 and had employed her to take care of Judge Harney and do other secret work for the Heinze company. Judge Harney, the affidavits say, visited Mrs. Brackett in her rooms frequently and the two were often under the influence of liquor.

PREDICTS A TRADE WAR WITH EUROPE

The Contest is Hostile and Bitter Against the United States—Antagonism Sure.

Paris, July 27.—"It is inevitable—a trade war upon America by allied Europe. It may not come immediately, but it will come in a few years. If it does not come it will because the government takes steps to divert it."

So said M. Paul Leroy Bealieu, the famous French economist, when interviewed by the correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald.

"American's have no conception of the feelings which exist against them in Europe," continued M. Bealieu. "Even you Americans who travel do not get at the real feelings of the people on this side of the water. You meet only those whose business is to entertain you, to sell goods to you, to extract money from you, to be polite to you. It is not from them you learn the truth. They conceal their thoughts. But men like myself who travel about on the continent as continentals—we know the state of the public mind. We know that every important government on the continent is already under pressure of manufacturers and tradesmen and producers who want a sharp drastic policy of retaliation upon America instituted at once.

"This pressure will make itself felt in time—that is inevitable. With the men who formed it it is a matter of dollars and cents. They are from the most influential classes, the capitalists, the employers, and they will have their way. Governments will be compelled to respect their wishes in order to maintain themselves."

A Bluff and Genial Farmer.

Sir William Brampton Gurdon, the member of parliament who has taken up the cudgel for the deceased wife's sister bill, is a bluff and genial farmer of Suffolk. He was private secretary to Mr. Gladstone in the '60's, served on the monetary conference in Paris in 1878, and was attached to the royal commission that went to the Cape in 1881 to settle the Transvaal question.

THOUSANDS DROWN IN FLOODED CHINA

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 8—Great floods caused by the overflowing of the Yang-Tse have caused the death of many thousands in China. The river has risen forty feet and for hundreds of miles the country is a vast lake, with only tops of trees and an occasional roof showing. At Anking the town is flooded, some of the houses to their roofs. At Kiu-Kiang the native town is flooded and two feet of water stands in the foreign settlements.

Lower down the river, toward Swu-Hue the destruction was even greater and boatmen estimate that 20,000 were drowned in the district. Chong-Teh was swept away by floods and 10,000 drowned there, and many other points have been inundated, involving awful loss of life and great destruction of property.

POSTAL RECEIPTS HAVE INCREASED

Washington, Aug. 8—Henry A. Castle, auditor for the postoffice department, is preparing his annual report. Regarding the increase of postal receipts Mr. Castle says: "The increase in the postal receipts this year will probably be more than $7,000,000. We have not received all the returns of the last quarter and consequently cannot state the exact amount. Last year was an unusually prosperous one but it is estimated that the postal receipts this year will amount o $111,000,000. In 1890 they were only $60,000,000.

NEGRO IS BURNED AT THE STAKE; AVENGE GREAT WRONG TO A WOMAN

Victim Prays and Curses While the Flames Consumed His Body---Confesses to Assaulting the Wife of a Prominent Alabama Farmer.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 8.—Uttering alternate curses and prayers and shrieking as the flames encircled his writhing body, John Pennington, a negro, died at the stake near Enterprise, a victim of the vengeance of a mob of 500 whites and blacks. Though the suffering wretch pleaded for mercy and frantically endeavored to break the chains that tightly bound him, not a trace of sympathy was shown on the faces that peered at him through the flames. Pennington had committed a brutal assault upon Mrs. J. C. Davis, the wife of one of the best known farmers of Coffee County, and confessed his guilt. The attack was made Tuesday when Mrs. Davis, who was alone at home, was in her garden. Leaving his victim unconscious, the negro fled into the woods about the place. As soon as she regained her senses Mrs. Davis crawled to the house and gave the alarm. A large posse was quickly organized with bloodhounds and the negro was chased until yesterday morning, when he was captured in a swamp. Pennington was bound hand and foot and taken back to the Davis home for identification. Mrs. Davis immediately recognized him, and the negro broke down and wept. He admitted the crime and pleaded for mercy, but, deaf to his cries of terror, the leaders dragged the trembling man from the house. Several members of the crowd had already driven an iron pipe into the ground, and as the men approached with Pennington both whites and blacks were piling brushwood around the stake. The negro saw his doom and with a scream of terror fell to the ground in a faint. He was quickly revived and dragged to the stake, while the crowd stood silent. The frightened man was limp and had to be held up while the chains were fastened around his neck and body. When all was ready the cry was given and the crowd stood back. A match was applied to the pile and, with oil to feed upon, the tiny flame soon burst into a roaring fire. The terrified negro again pleaded for mercy in the most agonizing tones and prayed that those around him might perish. He then called upon the Maker for forgiveness, and as the flames leaped up and encircled his neck an unearthly shriek was heard and the man's eyes had almost bulged out of the sockets. By this time the fire had gained such headway that nothing could be seen excepting a wriggling motion in the center of the circle of fire. A deathly silence followed and in a few minutes the flames had subsided sufficiently to disclose Pennington's head, fallen forward and hanging limp over the iron chain. The body was quickly consumed, after which the crowd quietly dispersed.

BRYANT MAY CALL STATE COMMITTEE

La Follette Men to Hold a Convention in Madison to Consider Political Situation.

Madison, Wis., August 8.—It is reported here today that it is more than likely that Chairman George E. Bryant of the republican state central committee will soon call a special meeting of that body for the purpose of holding a conference on the political situation in the state, and incidentally to enable the La Follette element to set up some pins for the renomination of the governor.

While General Bryant says that he has not seriously considered the matter yet, he has nevertheless informally discussed it with some of the party leaders and created impression that he deemed it advisable and would probably act accordingly. The general belief of those in confidence of the chairman is that he will call the meeting.

The chairman might call the meeting for the ostensible purpose of selecting two new members of the committee made necessary by the congressional reapportionment of the state.

He said last night that it might be deemed advisable to get the comsituation and select two new memmittee together and cipher out the situation and select two new members. He had not yet investigated the situation, he declared, but would do so soon.

Dubuque, Iowa, August 8.—Engineer Flynn of Lancaster, Wis., has been in the city several days consulting with Dubuque capitalists with a view to organizing a company to build an electric railway connecting this city with southwestern Wisconsin towns. Mr. Flynn's proposition has been favorably received, and it is probable a company will be organized on the plan suggested.

The plan suggested is to build a standard guage road conecting Hazel Green, Benton, Sinsinawa and Cuba City, joining the Chicago & Northwsetern at the latter place.

ASK FOR A CUT IN TOBACCO DUTY

Havana Dealers Want a Reduction—Annexation Would Injure Tobacco Growers in United States.

Havana, August 8.—The Union of Tobacco Dealers of Havana has decided to ask the Washington authorities to reduce the tax on Cuban cigars to $2.50 a pound, and to collect no ad valorem duty, and to fix the duty on fillers and wrappers at from 20 to 25 cents a pound.

The union says that to reduce the duty on wrapers without largely reducing it on cigars would encourage American cigarmakers to import Havana wrappers and make up cigars with American fillers, thus injuring the good name of Havana cigars. It also asks that Cuba, without concessions, is helpless, and will ask for annexation, as it cannot continue without the economic support of the United States, which would annex the islands if asked to, and then the tobacco states of Virginia and Ohio would be utterly ruined so far as tobacco is concerned and they could not compete with Cuba.

The union claims it is, therefore, bad policy on the part of the United States to oppose the granting of concessions to Cuba, as their opposition, if successful, would result in annexation.

HAMBURG GREETS GEN. WALDERSEE

Hamburg, Aug. 8.—General Waldersee landed here today and was met by the army officers and relatives. He was welcomed to the city by 5,000 troops and a large crowd of civilians. The royal family was unrepresented in the welcome but will receive the returning field marshal in Cronburg Sunday. A brilliant military reception had been planned but was abandoned on account of the death of the dowager empress.

PHILLIPS HAS HAD ENOUGH

Chicago Trader Says He Will Be Caught in no More Corn Pools.

Chicago, August 8.—"No more corn pools for me," says George H. Phillips today. "I knew I was standing over a can of gunpowder all the time, and it was only by the merest chance that I escaped total annihilation.

"I was forced into the May pool, but I won't be forced into another. They are too risky and not at all to my liking."

The corn king made this emphatic declaration apropos of the resolution against pools passed by the boad of directors of the board of trade yesterday.

CANADA'S GROWTH HAS BEEN SLOW

The Population is Now 5,300,000, an Increase of Less Than 500,000 in Last Ten Years.

Ottawa, Ont., August 8.—From reliable information it is learned that the population of Canada will be shown by the new census to be 5,300,000, an increase of less than 500,000 in ten years. There is still considerable work to be done upon the returns, and it is announced that the figures will be ready for publication on August 15. The census of 1891 gave Canada a population of 4,833,235, an increase of 508,420 over 1881.

CUMMINS WINS IN IOWA.

For governor, A. B. Cummins, Des Moines; for lieutenant governor, John Herriott, Stuart; supreme court judge, S. M. Weaver, Iowa Falls; railroad commissioner, E. C. Brown, Sheldon; superintendent public instruction, R. C. Barrett, Osage.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 8.—Cummins forces controlled the republican state convention yesterday and the Cummins slate, from top to bottom, was nominated. The opposition, led by men who have been successful in convention fights for years, contested every inch, and died in the last ditch. The result of the convention will be to retire a faction that has dominated Iowa politics for a decade and place in control a younger set of men. The first ballot resulted: Cummins, 860; Harriman, 359; Trewin, 369; Conger 42; Herriott, 8; Mahon, 2. The convention itself was a long drawn-out one, lasting from 10 o'clock in the morning to 8:30 in the evening, with an intermission at noon for lunch. The resolutions adopted indorse the administration of President McKinley and applaud the policy of the administration in the Philippines, Porto Rico and Cuba. They assert the right of the people to restrict, regulate or prohibit trusts. They urge the re-election of the two Iowa senators and praise Governor Shaw.

TAKE STEPS TO ELECT SPOONER

The Wisconsin Republicans form New Party Organization.

WAR ON GOVERNOR

Active Campaign by the Foes of the Primary Election Law Planned.

STATEMENT IS COMING

Milwaukee, August 8.—The first open move in the organization by the stalwarts for a fight within the republican party was made yesterday afternoon, when a conference of the stalwart ring was held at the offices on the eleventh floor of the Herman building, which will be made the headquarters of the association.

The meeting was in response to letters of invitation sent out by Senator Bissell, secretary of the legislature and prominent republican leaders in different parts of the state. A majority of the members of the last legislature were present and every legislative district in the state was represented.

A Number of Surprises.

While it was to be expected that senators and assemblymen who opposed the governor during the session would take no part in the organization, there were a number of surprises. It made the politicians who have been watching the movement open their eyes to see Senator Mosher and Assemblyman Rossman of Ashland and Steiger of Waupaca county on the list of members who were willing to go into the fight on the stalwart side.

All three were classed as LaFollette men last winter and Assemblyman Steiger was a La Follette leader in the lower house. All are strong men and their loss to the governor will be felt in the contest that is coming.

Object of the Meeting

The object of the meeting was to take an account of stock and confer as to the scope and direction of the organization. On these points there were differing views, from those who favored a fight to a finish to those who believed it best to simply perfect an organization to insure the return of Senator Spooner to the United States senate.

The majority, however, held to a more radical line of argument. Their argument was that the time for a compromise had passed. Peace had been proposed, they said, it had been defeated, and all that was left now was to fight the matter out. This would have to be done some time, and this was as good a time as any.

The term faction seemed to jar on the ears of most of those present, and everyone insisted that he roganization was not to be factional, but republican, and was open for any republicans who wished to join it.

Statement in a Few Days

As one of those present put it, "This is to be a republican organization that any republican believing in the principles of the national republican platform, and not in populism and populistic theorys, can join, and we hope to show that it is not built up in the interest of any one individual or set of individuals, but to further the cause of republicanism."

Senator Bissell said late in the afternoon that no statement would be made for several days, certainly not before the early part of next week. That those who met were very much in earnest was clear to the most superficial observer.

A Republican Meeting

Senator Bissell and others who represent hte committee at the head of the organization are particular in speaking of the gathering to say that it as a republican meeting; that it was nothing else, and that it was neither stalwart nor half breed. The senator especially advocates the abandonment by partisan newspapers of any term in connection with republican affairs other than the one to which all are entitled when they conform to the principles and policies of the party. He said today that he had never used the term stalwart or half breed to designate any man. However distasteful as it may be, it is believed that no sentiment is strong enough to turn the tide.

Sentiment for Spooner

It may be said with practically the indorsement of every man who attended the meeting that the great fight about to be waged will be mainly in the interest of Senator Spooner, who is recognized by republicans of all shades of opinion as a credit to the state. They believe his retirement at the end of his term would be a severe loss to the state and the country, and while some of them have followed La Follette faithfully for years they hesitate when the program includes Spooner's defeat. Much of the enthusiasm at the meeting today was for Spooner, and his name was frequently on every tongue. The republicans of Wisconsin are back of him, and this will be manifested when the next legislature convenes. No stone is to be left unturned that will complete the work necessary to insure his return.

Fight All Along the Line

Senator Jones said last night:

"We have an organization and while I am not at liberty to say anything as to its name or to give any outline as to the address which will

RUSSELL SAGE ENJOYS WORK; HE NEVER TAKES A VACATION

Does Not Care for Money as Money—Claims He Is Not Avaricious—How He Keeps Good Health.

New York, Aug. 8—Russell Sage said today when asked why he did not take a vacation: "I am 85 years old and a young man yet. I can outwork most men of 60. I enjoy work and hope to finish my earthly career right here at my desk."

"You are worth more money than you know what to do with," said the reporter. "Why do you insist on piling up more?"

Mr. Sage leaned back in his chair and laughed—not like an old, old man, but heartily and happily. Flowers well wishers had sent him in remembrance of the day were mixed with telegrams and puts and calls on his desk.

"Yes, I have a great deal of money," said he pleasantly. "And I am making more. I have, perhaps, more ready money on hand than any other man in Wall street who is not a regular banker. But I do not care for the money as money. I am not avaricious. I take small profits, but my business is so large that it amounts to a great deal. I must take some profit or it would not be business. I enjoy my work and like to be successful.

"Retire and enjoy life? Why, I am enjoying life. I am getting more out of life than most men who give big dinners and have yachts. I hope I shall never have to retire until my life work is done. If sickness forces me to quit work of course it must be so, but if I'd quit now, I'd simply rust out. I don't want to rust out; I want to wear out."

"Why don't you die of apoplexy, as other old Wall street men do?" the reporter asked.

"Because I take care of my health as well as my business," he answered. "I never go to extremes in working or eating or exercising. I do everything in moderation. I never put myself in a position where I shall have to worry. I never lie awake at night wondering whether I am on the wrong side of the stock market, because I never deal in margins.

"It's margins that kill. So many men in Wall street go to excess in their money making. They make thousands of dollars in one day and at night they give a big dinner and spend much of it ruining their health. That is why they die suddenly or get old at 60."

WILL CEBEBRATE OLD HOME WEEK

A Unique Festival Which is Observed Annually in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

There are several homesick people in this city at present, people whose eyes are turned longingly toward the far eastern states of New England, their birthplace and their childhood's home. This feeling of homesickness has been caused by the reception of invitations to the celebration of Old Home Week, a unique festival which is celebrated annually in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

The festival of old home week is full of sentiment and the invitations which have been received in this city have started trains of reminiscent thought concerning the days spent in New England. They have aroused desires to visit the eastern states in many people who have never known any home but the west but whose parents once resided in one of the states where Old Home Week is to be celebrated this month.

The event is of similar nature in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont and the invitations are similar in form. Those received from New Hampshire are sent out by Frank W. Rollins, of Concord, ex-governor of the state and president of the New Hampshire Old Home Week association. The invitations read as follows:

"New Hampshire will celebrate its third annual Old Home Week, August 17 to 24, 1901. Following the custom already established the week will be inaugurated on Saturday night, by beacon fires on the mountains and hill tops. On Sunday, Old Home Week Sermons will be preached in the churches and on Monday the round of celebrations and gaieties will begin, lasting through the week. Wherever the stranger within our gates pleases to wander during the week he will receive the loving hand grasp of a hospitable people, and each returning son of New Hampshire will learn that the yearning of his own heart for the Granite hills finds an answering throb in ours. The many thousands who came back to us last year will return again this year, and thousands more will join them. Come back to the mother who bore you, the hills which smiled upon you, the fields which nurtured you. Renew the ideals of youth. Dream again the dreams of happy childhood. I feel that I voice the desires of the whole people of New Hampshire in extending this invitation, and especially of the New Hampshire Old Home Week association, and in its name I bid every living person who traces his lineage to New Hampshire parentage a hearty welcome."

The Youth's Companion of last week contained a lengthy and very interesting article on Old Home Week from the pen of ex-Governor Rollins. He says frankly that its object is to regain some of the wealth of manhood and womanhood which has gone out from the state to the west. Through its influence many sons of New Hampshire have purchased the old family homes, many of them returning to their native state to live and some retaining the old homesteads for summer homes. During Old Home Week in the past two years there have been reunions of families that have been scattered for years. Places of historic value throughout this historic state have been suitably marked with tablets and monuments to New Hampshire's noted sons have been erected.

SHIP BUILDERS KEPT VERY BUSY

Some of the Finest Ocean Goers in the World on the Ways—Years of Work Ahead.

The Blue Book of American shipping, which is a marine and naval directory of the United States, says in reviewing the year's developments in the shipbuilding industry of the country that, without probably a single exception, the yards that engage in building steel vesels have work ahead to their full capacity for at least twelve months and some of them for a much greater length of time. This is true of all shipyards of the seaboard as well as those of the great lakes. On the seaboard, the great bulk of work is of course, in the construction of ships of war, but the demand for new vessels for coasting service—the feature of most pominence in American shipbuilding during the last two or three years—still continues, and, notwithstanding the failure thus far of all efforts to secure government aid for foreign trade shipping, the coming year will see the completion of a few vessels for over-sea commerce that will be among the finest in the world. These latter include two Pacific Mail liners nearing completion at the Newport News works, six large freighters for the Atlantic Transport line at Camden, N. J., and at Sparrow's Point, Md., and two steamers at New London, Conn. for service on the Pacific in connection with the Great Northern railway that will be about of the same dimensions as the White Star Liner Celtic, the largest ship afloat.

In naval circles the year is distinguished by the fact that the most magnificent order for new vessels of war ever awarded by the government was given to the shipbuilders. Contracts were awarded for fourteen warships—five battle ships, six armored cruisers and three protected cruisers—aggregating 187,354 tons in displacement, 297,120 in horse power and costing, exclusive of armor and armament, $49,944,600. There is no single instance which equals this splendid total. Altogether, sixty-one war ships are building for the United States navy, representing a total displacement of 289,183 tons, 567,620 horse power and costing for hulls and machinery only, $80,954,116. In addition the last naval act authorized the construction of two battle-ships and two armored cruisers. The plans for these will be submitted to congress for its next session by the naval board of construction.

MODES FOR WOMEN.

Here and there one sees in the shops a pretty soft, white leather shoe, frequently tied with a big white ribbon bow, and most attractive. That is the buckskin shoe, and the few women who have invested in them this year are beginning to realize that they are not only pretty but comfortable shoes to wear. The are too new, however, to be very well known or much used at present.

The welt-soled colonial shoe is the shoe par excellance, the dealers say, and will be the shoe for this fall. The fall styles and shapes are beginning to come in. This shoe with the high tongue and the high buckle, is exceedingly attractive, and light varieties are made of it for house use. The genuine colonial shoe has the welt sole, for it is to be given out-door wear, as it was by our little colonial sisters some hundred years ago. The shoes can be purchased without scruple, for it is prophesied that they will be as popular next spring and summmer as they are this season.

Braiding is coming in for low shoes, and some exceedingly pretty effects are to be seen in it. One shoe, which is delightful in shop and finish, with a high pointed tongue, has the patent leather vamp strapped with silk braid, perhaps a sixteenth of an inch wide and set its width apart. The effect of this finish is to give a pretty, slender shape to the foot. The buckle of this shoe is of patent leather. A braided black kid slipper is finished with a large silk bow.

Shoes in bronze, in tan and in gray and black are to be worn this fall, and very pretty and effective shoes they are too.

A very stylish low shoe of patent leather, beaded, with a high tongue, has a buckle covered with patent leather. This buckle is quite a new feature and an agreeable change. The entire slipper is of new and imported design.

Satin slippers are promised for the fall in all shades, and the black satin slipper, elaborately beaded on the toe and on the straps, will still be good. The plain black satin slipper is always in style and always in good taste. Some of the satin slippers have tiny little buckles or minute beaded bows which are very neat and pretty.

If you have a baby in your house you will wish to know the best way to check any unusual looseness of the bowels, or diarrhoea, so common to small children. O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind., who has an eleven months' old child, says: "Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach. His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once." The Neglect Cure for Warts.

Warts are curious things. They come and go mysteriously, although their going is frequently marked by exasperating delays, and there are almost as many infalliable cures as there are warts, the only trouble with these cures being that they are useless when applied to the particular wart you happen to have. They are only good for other people's.

"In my opinion," said a club man, who was discussing the subject with a friend one day, "a wart is merely the outward correspondence of some mental excrescence. Get rid of that and it goes away.

"Let me give you a bit of my own experience," he continued. "Last year I went to Europe. For about three years I had had a wart on my little finger, on which I had tried everything I could hear of, but without effect. It only grew larger.

"Well in the excitement of preparing for the trip, and of the journey itself, I forgot all about my wart, and when I looked for it about six weeks later it had vanished, without leaving the slightest mark. I simply forgot it and it had no mental condition to feed on. I see you have one on the back of your hand. Forget all about it for a few weeks and it will go away of itself."—Youths' Companion.

Nothing Tastes Good

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be.

This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured the niece of Frank Fay, 106 N. St., South Boston, Mass., who writes that she had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for six years; had been without appetite and had been troubled with sour stomach and headache. She had tried many other medicines in vain. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla made her well.

IMMORALITY THE CURSE OF HAWAII

ACQUISITION OF ISLANDS BY U. S. THREATENS DANGER.

Horrors of Life in the Stockade—One-Eighth of All the Women in the Islands Were Inmates—The System of Child Slavery Responsible for Much Evil.

Honolulu, July 26—In annexing the Hawaiian islands the United States acquired a country morally doomed, and whether or not the acquisition involves the moral doom of the United States is a question which will become more and more serious in the march of time.

It has always been admitted that the main sociological feature of the Hawaiias has been immorality, just as the most striking physiological characteristic of the inhabitants has been leprosy. But it has never been considered that this one contaminating spot on the national body of the United States would lead to general corruption. This phase of the anexation, which in the past has been utterly ignored as a subject of dispute, will at its present rate of development soon become of great significance.

The monetary interests of the United States which have the Hawaiian islands as their field of exercise are of so great weight in the United States proper that they are able, unless stubbornly resisted, to subject the entire nation to the same conditions as prevail in Hawaii.

Lowest Depths of Immorality.

There has been no doubt that the immorality existing in the Hawaiian islands has long since arrived at its lowest stage in human or animal life. And now that it can go no lower it is certain that it will go further on all sides than heretotore. It is owing to the abolishment of the stockades that the immorality can go no deeper, but must become more extensive.

The stockades of Honolulu were types of the third, or civilized, classes of slavery. Of the other classes the chief representatives are that of the first class, the English prison pens or stockades of Africa, where the captive Matabele chiefs are confined for life in a sitting posture, exposed to the weather night and day, with hands manacled behind their backs and chained to posts, and that of the second class, the slave marts of central Africa. These two classes belong to barbarian slavery, the first, promoted by the British army, being designated as involuntary slavery aggravated by constant torture, and the second involutary slavery, mitigated by fair treatment for pecuniary reasons. But there is no doubt that the third or civilized class of slavery, represented by the stockades of Honolulu, afforded more misery than the other classes combined. This third class might be designated as voluntary slavery, aggravated by the sacrifice of moral power and intensified by the wrecking of physical health.

Many Women in Stockades.

Just prior to the abolishment of the stockades by order of Acting Governor Cooper, there were, according to the police report, 1,800 women in the stockades. Yet there are but 14,500 women on the islands. This shows that out of every eight women one was in the stockades. To account for this it is necessary to say that more than 75 per cent. of the inmates of the stockades were native Hawaiians, Chinese and Japanese. But this explanation shows the Chinese and Japanese in a far more unfavorable light than would otherwise be apparent.

One out of every four Chinese women on the islands, was an inmate of the stockades, while one out of every two Japanese women was. The Hawaiian women ranked next to these, but the proportion of them in stockades was not half so great as of either Japanese of Chinese.

It was once the custom to operate factories and mills as much as possible by whites, mostly children, in the daytime, and by Japanese and Chinese at night. But this custom has passed. Japanese, Hawaiian and Chinese men, women and children now work side by side with white men, women and children.

Force Children to Suport Them.

But it is a shameful fact that very few white men do hard work. They make their children do it for them. The tropical climate is enervating to the white man and makes him lazy. In consequence there is child slavery. White men between 40 and 50 years of age, what is considered the prime of life elsewhere, do very little work. From two to four hours a day is the average. They will do only the slightest kind of work and most of the time they rest. The white children go to work at 7 in the morning and work until 7 in the evening. They do about ten hours' work every day.

There is money in children in Hawaii. Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiians and whites all agree to this. If a man has three children between 6 and 20 years of age he is independent. If he takes good care he will not need to work after he is 40 years of age. Six dollars a week, say, the wages of three children, will amply support him. At worst he will not need to do more than two hours' work a day in the heavy tropical climate so long as his children can stand ten hours of oppressive toil daily.

Hawaii Morally Doomed.

These facts prove that Hawaii is morally doomed. The Asiatic canker is firmly rooted in the moral fabric of the new territory. The weak are exploited in every manner by the strong and the strength of the strong is their evil. The degradation of the women and children is attributable to the Asiatics, but the corruption of the intelligent whites cannot be ascribed to this, and to what the corruption will tend, cannot be pointed out with joy.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Eben Lucas and Mary Smith, both of Kirkland, Ill.

FEAR FOR ENGLAND'S KING

Extra Care Being Taken to Avoid Assassins.

CLOSE WATCH IS BEING KEPT.

Apprehension Felt Regarding His Journey to Germany—Scotland Yard Authorities Warndd of a Revival of Anarchist Activity.

London, Aug. 8.—The remarkable series of postponements and alterations in regard to King Edward's journey to his sister's funeral has already aroused considerable conjecture in England. None of the customary channels for chronicling the King's movements was taken into confidence by the officers of his household when they came with unprecedented secrecy yesterday from Cowes to Marlborough house. Indeed, the King has not sought anything like his present avoidance of publicity since the time of his mother's death. It is not due to his own wish that the present unprecedented proceedings are adopted, but only to the urgent insistence of the political section of Scotland Yard in warning the detectives responsible for his majesty's safety. These detectives have now been increased to nearly double the number who attended Queen Victoria. Their chiefs have been warned for some months to expect a revival of anarchist activity during the coming winter, and organization against the emergency is now being effected. These new and more extended arrangements, especially with the continental police, have not been tested since King Edward's visit to his sister in February. It is the present desire to have time to secure the closest control of the route before the King starts on Friday. The changes in his programme aim at easing the great strain the detectives admit they feel regarding his journey. According to present arrangements, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and the Princess Victoria will leave Friday for Cronberg, and will arrive there on Sunday. They will use the new royal yacht Victoria and Albert.

ASKS GRANT OF $32.000,000.

Mr. Chamberlain Says He Wants to Reinstate Boers on Farms.

London, Aug. 8.—The house of commons last night discussed a vote of £6,500,000 ($32,500,000) as a grant in aid of the Transvaal and Orange River colonies. Sir William Vernon Harcourt and others severely criticising the government's measure. Mr. Chamberlain, replying, said he quite agreed that the government's first duty was to the loyalist refugees, and he declared that money would not be spared for that purpose. "It is also a matter of imperial policy," continued the colonial secretary, "to give the necessary support to those of our enemies who come into our hands. One million of the vote is for extra rolling stock. A large sum will be devoted to reinstating the Boers on their farms, and an experiment will be made in the direction of agricultural settlements. There is no intention of confiscation. We have had offers of land at reasonable prices and a portion of the vote will be devoted to the purchase of such land, with a view of enabling men who volunteered for the war to settle when the war is over."

Thousands Die in Floods.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 8.—Great floods caused by the overflowing of the Yang-Tse have caused the death of many thousands in China. The river has risen forty feet and for hundreds of miles the country is a great lake, with only tops of trees and an occasional roof showing. At Anking the town is flooded, some of the houses to their roofs. At Kiu-Kiang the native town is flooded and two feet of water stands in the foreign settlements. Lower down the river, toward Swn-Hue, the destruction was even greater and boatmen estimate that 20,000 were drowned in the district. Chong-Teh was swept away by floods and 10,000 drowned there, and many other points have been inundated, involving awful loss of life and great destruction of property. It was feared an embankment built by Chong Cheh Tung, near Wu-Chang, would break and cause the drowning of hundreds of thousands.

Expects Turkey to Pay Up.

Paris, Aug. 8.—A high official of the French foreign office to-day explained to the correspondent of the Asosciated Press here the nature of the difficulty at Constantinople between the French ambassador there, M. Constans, and the Turkish government.

There are two matters pending between France and Turkey—the affair of the Quay company and a number of claims of Frenchmen against the porte, the amount of which was fixed and payment promised long ago. M. Constans has been unable to obtain satisfaction in either matter and in May he intimated that he would be forced to ask for his recall if the Turkish government persisted in its procrastinating tactics.

Coal Combine Feared.

London, Aug. 8.—The British consular report regarding trade at Marseilles, issued this morning, declares that the most vital recent development from a British view point is the determined attempt of the United States to obtain a monopoly of the coal imports at that port. "A great coal combine is contemplated," the report says. "Without it American coal will surely share the market, but will not be able to entirely oust British coal. It would simply be a question of freights and quality, both of which are against the United States, but the proposed combine looks dangerous."

Two More Concerns Fail.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—Dispatches from various parts of Germany show that the financial and individual crisis is spreading. The Reinische Immobdloien Aktienbank of Cologne has been declared insolvent, and the calico mill of Ehrenberg & Richter, in Ellenburg, has suspended. Nothing has yet been published regarding their respective liabilities. Dr. Vierlin, chairman of the overseers of the W. H. Popp spinning machinery factory in Werdau, has been arrested. Two of the directors are wanted under suspicion of having forged checks.

Indian Garrison Is Raided.

London, Aug. 8.—A dispatch from Simla, India, says 200 Mahsuds surprised and looted the militia post at Kashmirkar on Tuesday, killing a native officer and six soldiers. The commanding officer and three men were wounded. The Mahsuds demanded the rifles, threatening to burn the post if the weapons were not given up. The militiamen surrendered their rifles. The Mahsuds then decamped with the rifles, ammunition, uniforms, and kits of the garrison without losing a man.

Turkish Soldiers Burn Family.

Vienna, Aug. 8.—The Budapest Lloyd has a Salonica special which says that eight Bulgarians who crossed the Turkish frontier and who were pursued, fled into the house of a peasant from where they fired several shots at their pursuers. One of the Turkish officers was killed. This so incensed the Turks that they put a torch to the house, burning the Bulgarians and the peasant owner, with his family.

To Fight the Yankee Shoes.

Vienna, Aug. 8.—At a largely attended meeting of shoemakers here it was decided in spite of the announcement that an American firm would not open a branch in Vienna that the shoemakers should continue the anti-American crusade, with the view of guarding against a recrudescence of "Yankee schemes." No definite decision was arrived at as to what form the next action of the shoemakers will take.

Eight Killed in a Revolt.

Budapest, Aug. 8.—The peasants at Nadas, in South Hungary, today revolted against the form of serfdom which still survives in certain parts of Hungary. Troops fired on the rebels killing eight of them.

The play will depict Bresci drawing the fatal lot at a meeting of the group, his journey to Italy, the scene of assassination and Bresci's imprisonment and suicide.

No More Bodies Found.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—No additional bodies have been recovered from the debris at the Locust street explosion since 8 o'clock last night. There were no deaths at either hospital where the injured were taken. The total number of known dead is seven, but several are reported missing.

Ready for Wireless Telegraph.

Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 8.—The work upon the 160-foot mast at "Bunker hill," Slasconset, for the wireless telegraph system has been completed. Over 100 cells will furnish the electrical power and four accumulators are placed in the operators' room.

Hurls a Flagman to Death.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 8.—August Jackson, a flagman at the Greenfield-avenue crossing of the Northwestern railroad, met a tragic death last night and Joseph Warczschick will be charged with his murder. The latter, who is married and lives on Second street, tried to board the Chicago train at the Greenfield crossing, where it does not stop. Johnson prevented him. The men came to blows and Johnson had to struggle fiercely to resist the attack upon him. The men wrestled desperately, but the Pole was younger and stronger. He pushed Johnson back and then flung him in front of a passing switch engine. The engine wheels passed over him and crushed him so that he died a half hour afterward at the Milwaukee hospital.

Found Dead in Her Mansion.

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 8.—Mrs Elizabeth Jenkins, who four years ago came to this section from Chicago, was found dead in her magnificent home at Ontario by two business men, who had called to close a transaction whereby she was to purchase the town's school bonds. The body was found lying on the floor in the parlor, surrounded by all the luxuries that immense wealth can furnish. The body was in an advanced stage of decomposition. She was the principal owner of the Ontario Street railway and much other valuable property.

School Teacher Killed.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Lawrence McGriskin, a teacher in the Gallistel school, Ewing avenue and One Hundred and Fourth street, South Chicago, was killed at Ninety-first street and South Chicago avenue by a live wire. He was going to his home at One Hundred and Sixth street and Torrence avenue when the wire fell from a post and struck him. Mr. McGriskin taught mathematics. He was recently a professor at the University of Notre Dame, where he was in charge of the department of mathematics.

Old Woman Routs 50 Workmen.

La Porte, Ind., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Price, 82 years of age, put to rout a gang of fifty workmen that attempted to tear up the sidewalk in front of her home for the purpose of putting down a new walk. Recently the city council condemned a lot of walks and let the contracts for replacing them to Chicago contractors. The sight of a gun in Mrs. Price's hands created a panic, and the men fled. Mrs. Price still holds the fort.

Abstinence Catholics Meet.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 8.—Three hundred delegates, representing many States east of the Mississippi attended the opening session of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America. They met first at Foot Guard hall and proceeded thence to St. Joseph's cathedral, where mass was celebrated. At the afternoon business session the Rev. D. F. For Library Extension

"The Municipality," a monthly periodical published at Madison, contains this month a very good article along the line advocated in these columns before. Following is the substance of Mr. Hutchins' article read before the National Library Association in session at Waukesha:

One important consideration is that over one half of the population of the United States is a rural population. A second consideration is that with few exceptions, the libraries are located in cities or villages. Third, it is a well known fact that country people read books more carefully and thoroughly than city people, and that books have a greater influence on the young on the farm where their evenings are always spent at home in the house, rather than on the street.

Of the $16,000,000 given to libraries, more than ninety-nine per cent. was donated to city or college libraries, which are not accessable to the farmer except at an expense he is unwilling to bear. There are many townships in this state where free traveling libraries are doing a great work, or where by special contract with the township boards, the libraries deliver, free of charge, books to the farmers.

The educational power of good books is a well known fact, and the public library always folows the public school, the problem is to make the library and school accessable to the farmer. The school problem has been settled and the library question can be settled in the same way. Let the farmers demand daily delivery of books as they have demanded delivery of mail, and carriage of their children to and from a central school. It would not be wise to demand the inauguration of a new system over the entire state until the experiment has been tried in a community where conditions are favorable and the people are willing.

Tammany Is Caught.

At last a jury has been convinced that injustice has been done the public in the shape of blackmail. In spite of legal technicalities, perjury by disreputable witnesses, and the taunt of the chief of police "Yer can't proveit," justice has come and a detective has been sentenced. Tammany has received such a jolt on the point of the jaw that it has not yet recovered its equilibrium. From now on convictions will be easier. Bissert is not the only guilty one. The system which allows such practices is what ought to be crushed and public corruption punished.

Three Times And Out.

Dr. Koch's latest "discovery" should not be taken seriously until its merits have been clearly shown. This is the third "discovery" made by the German tuberculosis specialist, the other two having been total failures. The world should not stand still simply because this man says humanity cannot catch consumption from cattle. The usual precauttions should be taken regardless of Dr. Koch as there is no evidence that his present theory is any more firmly founded than was his statement that consumption could be cured.

South Carolina, so used to the rampage of Tillman, objects to listening to a speech from a New Yorker because he indulges in a little thunder once in a while. What kind of progress would Tillman make if he were called to order every time he got down to business by using "profanity and personalities?" Surely this is a blow to free speech.

Lieutenant Hobson's desire to give Cervera a loving cup to show our respect and admiration for his bravery and love of country, shows his ideas of the fitness of things in this as in the kissing episode, are conspicuous for their absence. The wisest thing for Hobson to do is to saw wood and keep his mouth shut.

Can the new superintendent of the state school for the Deaf and Dumb, at Delavan, master the deaf and dumb lip or sign language? In former years this was the foremost qualification demanded of a superintendent, as otherwise the head of the school could not communicate with the pupils.

It is wonderful what healing powes a pardon posesses. A pardon obtained under the false pretense of shamming sickness has set at liberty an embezzler of Rutland, Vt., and now he is on a hunting trip in the mountains.

An United States surgeon has discovered a remedy for yellow fever. Gen. Wood discovered some time ago that cleanliness was the worst foe Yellow Jack ever encountered. Just think of it! Havana, without a single case.

The man who rewarded an honest boy, who returned $10,000 worth of diamonds, by a ten dollar bill, showed a parsimony which goes a long way toward making human nature dishonest.

Ex-Governor Hoard's interview with Hon. Isaac Stephenson was closely followed by an attack on Henry C. Payne and E. C. Wall, in Mr. Hoard's paper. This is probably a mere coincidence, however.

Knapp, Stout & Co. will saw their last log in a few days. This enterprising firm has done much for northern Wisconsin. It's lumbering crew often numbered 3,000 men. Its business wil be wound up within two weeks.

The La Crosse Chronicle complains that certain political information could not be "read in the stars." We had suspected that the Chronicle was seeing stars of late.

The membership of the Schley court of inquiry is now complete, and the court, in a few months, will begin to begin.

The campaign has already been planned and the guns will soon be booming—the shooting season opens in three weeks.

Teddy Roosevelt's reception in Colorado has a better odor than that accorded him during the last campaign.

The deadly gasoline tank has the famous unloaded gun groggy. The Philadelphia horror is a case in point.

The decision as to both Sampson and Schley will doubtless be "good effort, but poorly judged."

But few Beloit people will eat sausage after this. The Line City has a new dog pound.

The most prominent fact anent the "True story" appears to be that it isn't true.

The tipless Pullman porter also appears to be one of the latterday wonders.

Speculator Phillips could corner the corn market, but he couldn't keep books.

The wireless telegraph will certainly insure the secretless message.

NATURALLY FELT A LITTLE SCARED

Boys Who Were in the Riley Barn Talking When the Lightning Struck, Yesterday.

F. E. Beard, who drives one of the delivery wagons of the Colvin Baking company and Will Riley, son of William Riley whose barn was destroyed by fire after being struck by lightning yesterday afternoon, are congratulating themselves on their narrow escape from death. Beard drove into the barn for protection from the storm and the two young men were engaged in conversation when the lightning struck the barn and the air was filled with flame. A rabbit a few feet from them was killed by the shock and as the young men were nearer the place where the lightning struck than the rabbit was they cannot undersand how they escaped. They feel he effects of the electricity a little today but they experinced no shock.

Naturally they were badly frightened and Beard hurried the ponies from the barn as fast as he could; surprised that they were not killed. One of the ponies was quite deaf from the effects of the lightning but recovered its hearing today.

SOLICITING FUNDS TO GO TO COLLEGE

Thos. Russell, a deaf mute from Burlington, Vt., is in the city raising funds to secure a scholarship in the United States College for Mutes at Devils' Lake, North Dakota. Mr. Russell is making the trip on his bicycle, the distance between the two points being 2,062 miles. He left Burlington on June 25 and expects to arrive in Devils' Lake about September 1st. He makes 120 miles a day where the roads are good. He wears a bright red blouse and attracted considerable attention on the streets today.

WERE MADE HAPPY AT HYMEN'S ALTAR

Miss Alta Palmer and Fred Decker Were Happily Married at Eight O'clock Last Evening.

Amid the happiest and most auspicious of surroundings, Miss Alta May Palmer and Fred A. Decker started forth last evening on life's journey together. The compact to share each other's joys and lighten each other's sorrows was entered into in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and friends who gathered at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer, corner of Milton avenue and Glen streets for the happy event.

Eight o'clock last evening was the hour set for the ceremony and as the clock chimed forth the hour, the beautiful melody of the wedding march played by Miss Rose Hathorn floated through the flower decked rooms. Four pretty maidens entered the parlors and made an aisle with broad satin ribbon, through which the happy couple marched preceded by little Pauline Cameron, cousin of the bride, who bore the ring. The ribbon girls were the Misses Hattie and Nellie Decker, sisters of the groom, Hazel Palmer, sister of the bride, and Maude Sherman.

The bridal party stood beneath an arch of green and white while Rev. Richard M. Vaughan, pastor of the Baptist church, spoke the mystic words which transformed Miss Alta Palmer into Mrs. Fred Decker.

After the ceremony and congratulations, an elaborate wedding banquet was served at flower laden tables. The brides' table was especially handsome with its decorations of pink roses. The supper was one of unusual elegance, even for such an occasion. Frank Parker was the caterer and the guests were cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Slawson and the Misses Tassie and Minnie Kline of Beloit.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer and is the happy possesor of those qualifications which especially fit her to preside over the new home which has been given into her keeping. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Decker and is associated with his father in the tobacco business and farming. He and his bride will make their home on Milton avenue at the home of the groom's parents. The young couple took no wedding trip but have gone at once to housekeeping. They will have the best wishes of their many friends.

Fellows-Cook Marriage

Miss A. Ellen Fellows, of this city, and William J. Cook, of St. Paul Park Minn., were happily married at Rockford, Ill., yesterday, the ceremony which made them man and wife being performed by the Rev. Richard Miller, of this city. The brisal party was attended by Miss Ada Fellows, sister of the bride and Robert Wilson, of Rockford. Although the wedding was a very quiet affair the bride wore a handsome gown of white satin. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cook will make their home at Rock Prairie where the groom will engage in farming.

A STENCH RISES FROM THE RACE

A new platform over the race has been put in in the alley at the rear of F. C. Stillson's and F. H. Baack's. The proprietors of the stores whose rear doors open on this alley way complain bitterly of the stench which rises from the race. They claim that the raceway is not cleaned out as it should be and that dead fish and all sorts of refuse are carried into the race and kept there by the gates until it is impossible to have the back doors of the stores open on account of the tainted air. A vigorous protest was made to Dr. George W. Fifield before he left the city on his trip and it is claimed that the matter will be carried furher unless this complaint has the desired effect of doing away with the evil.

Whitcomb Dearborn Funeral

Funeral services for the late Whitcomb DeLong Dearborn were held form the Forest Park home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Watt this afternoon at two o'clock. Many sympathizing friends of the family gathered around the flower laden casket while the Rev. W. Hall, pastor of the Court Street M. E. church, spoke briefly of the child whose form lay beneath an abundance of beautiful flowers. At the close of the sad service the remains were taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment. The loving hands of relatives bore the precious form to its last resting place the pall bearers being Charles Dearborn, Harold Dearborn, Bert Watt and J. G. DeLong, brother, cousins and uncle of the deceased boy.

The remains of Master Whitcomb were brought to this city from Chicago, where his death occurred on Tuesday night, and they were accompanied by the bereaved mother, Mrs. L. P. Dearborn, her sister, Mrs. W. M. Carrier and Mrs. Lillian Devereaux, her brother J. G. DeLong, and her niece, Miss Zoe Carier, all of whom make their home in Chicago.

Increase in June Failures.

Classified returns, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co. for the month of June, show failures somewhat heavier than in the three preceding months and the same month in the two preceding years, but prior to 1899 last month's liabilities would have been considered extremely light. In manufacturing the total was $1,518,817 larger than last year, but a few unusual disasters account for the difference. Depression in the cotton manufacture, due to overproduction of goods from high-priced raw material, had almost passed away without bringing any serious failures, and the fact had been mentioned as remarkable in connection with earlier reports.

Rooms in the Vatican.

The Vatican, the largest palace in the world, will soon receive another addition to its bulk, which will bring up the number of its rooms to 12,000. The Pope has decided to erect three new buildings. One, containing 80 rooms, will be used to house the pilgrims coming to Rome, while the other two, which will be much smaller, will be added to the Vatican Museum. In the last mentioned buildings will be placed all the artistic offerings that Leo XIII. has received during his Pontificate.

The People Who Wear Whiskers.

The dwellers in the north of Europe have always been remarkable for their use of the beard. This, of course, is due to the cold temperature of those regions. At the present day Russia is probably the country in which beards are most generally worn. There the peasants wear beards to a man, while the upper classes, adopting the French fashion, usually affect an imperial or a short, clipped beard.

Primitive Ways in Mexico.

Some of the solid, conservative old business houses in the City of Mexico cling to eighteenth century ways as obstinately as do a few such establishments in London. Several of them are still using tallow dips. A bookkeeper may be seen making his entries in a great ledger with the light of a single candle and the wealthy proprietor may be found bending over his big mahogany desk flanked by two tall and stately candelabra.

Largest City South of Equator.

The census returns for the metropolitan district of Sydney, N. S. W., have just been published and show that during the past 10 years its population has increased by a little over 100,000 persons. The total is now 386,859, of whom 197,227 are males, 189,632 females. Sydney now ranks as one of the largest cities of the world. It is the largest city south of the line. The United States only contain six larger cities.

Emptiness of Scotch Churches.

There is much complaint of the emptiness of the churches in Presbyterian Scotland. A census taken by the Dundee Advertiser shows these results: 1881, sittings, 60,054, attendance, 30,663; 1891, sittings, 63,033; attendance, 26,138. There are 101 churches in and around Dundee now, and the average attendance is only forty-one.

TWO VICTIMS OF A BAD RUNAWAY

MRS. LEMMERHIRT AND DAUGHTER, EMMA, BADLY HURT.

Farmer From Near Afton Brings His Family to Town On a Load of Grain —Horses Frightened On Eastern Ave,, Run Away—Wagon Tipped Over and Smashed.

Mrs. Chas. Lemmerhirt and daughter were the victims of a bac runaway, which occurred on Eastern avenue just east of where the Janesville & Southeastern railroad crosses the road at 12 o'clock today. Mr. Uehling with his daughter and her eight year old child started to town today from their home near Afton with a load of grain in a lumber wagon drawn by a pair of horses. All went well until they reached Eastern avenue.

Here the tire on one of the front wheels came loose and Mr. Uehling gave the lines to his wife and got down onto the ground to put the tire back in place. He had given it a few raps when the horses became frightened at the noise made by the blows or some other thing and started on a run.

Mrs. Lemmerhirt was unable to hold them or to keep them in the road and after they had gone about thirty rods they collided with a tree smashing the wheel and tipping the wagon over

The wagon had a double box on field with grain and when the tip over came Mrs. Lemmerhirt and child were pinned to the ground under the wagon box and the bags of grain.

The people living on the road in that neighborhood heard the crash, and some of them saw the runaway.

They immediately rushed to the scene of the accident and helped Mrs. Lemmerhirt and the girl from under the wreck. Mrs. Lememrhirt was badly hurt about her right foot and ankle and ht elittle girl was hurt about her hips.

A patrol call was sent in and the injured ones conveyed to Dr. James Mills' office for treatment.

The doctor found upon examination that Mrs. Lemmerhirt's right foot and ankle were badly bruised and the flesh torn loose down to the bone as if some heavy weight had fallen upon it.

Miss Emma was the most seriously injured, her left hip being crushed and the lower part of her body was ripped and torn as if she had been forced down over some object and her limbs forced apart. She will be in a serious condition for some time.

Both patients were taken to the Palmer Hospital from Dr. Mills' office so that they might have proper care.

GLEASON HORSES SOLD AT AUCTION

The horses belonging to Prof. O. R. Gleason, attached some time ago to satisfy the claim of Dan Ryan against the Professor were sold at public auction this morning by Sheriff Maltpress to satisfy the claim.

J. E. Gleason bid in the gray stallion for $55 and J. A. Ryan the sorrell gelding for $77. This was nearly enough to satisfy the judgment and costs, so the third horse was not sold. The parties holding the judgment have not yet decided what they will do with it.

Gleason claimed that the horses were not his property and that a suit in the United States court would be brought against the sheriff for taking them. The sheriff is protected by a good sized bond and so is not much worried over the outcome of the suit.

Gleason will soon start out in Milwaukee with a larger and better show than ever. He has paid the most of the claims against him since he left this city.

B. F. LANDIS IN A PECK OF TROUBLE

IS CHARGED WITH MURDER AND THEFT.

A Former Janesville Man Wanted by the Sheriffs of Three Counties in Indiana and Ohio—Police Think They Have Captured a Great Criminal—A Smooth Character.

B. F. Landis, who formerly ran a cigar store in this city on North Main street about where R. C. Yeomans now has his plumbing establishment seems to be in a sorts of trouble in Indiana. He was arrested in Portland, Ind., yesterday morning while secreted in a box car on the Lake Erie and Western railroad by Sheriff Miller of Ottawa, Sheriff Cliffe of Upper Sandusky and Sheriff Schunk of Celina.

According to police statements Landis has a reputation for being implicated in the crimes of horse stealing and safe cracking. He is also suspected of having committed at least two murders, one at Findlay and one at Toledo.

Landis, who is about 52 years of age, has a small black mustache, sharp brown eyes and is of medium size.

The prosecuting attorney at Hartford, who had been conferring with the sheriffs was seen late yesterday afternoon. In answer to a query he said: "Landis is wanted in Ohio for many crimes, but he will be taken back only on the charge of grand larceny." Sheriff Schunk of Celina, O., who was in the prosecuting attorney's office when queried said that Landis is one of the smoothest criminals in the country, and that he was implicated in the murder of the Sullivan sisters at Toledo and in the Pixley murder at Findlay.

Sheriff Schunk said in regard to Landis' connection with the Sullivan murder that the prisoner had fallen out with one of his pals who took revenge by giving him away. The officer stated that he man who did the deed was described as having red hair and a two weks' growth of heard on his face, and the pal of Landis said a skin mask had been used and also a wig, these afterward being thrown away. His story was investigated and found to be true.

MURPHY LEAGUE TO GREET DR. PENCE

Monster Meeting Being Arranged to Welcome the Popular Preacher Next Sunday.

A monster meeting of the Francis Murphy Temperance League will be held at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and every man, woman and child in the city is invited to join in the greeting which the league will give Rev. H. Pence, D. D., of Detroit.

Rev. Pence was one of the most loyal supporters of the league when he resided in this city and when the officers of the league heard that he was to be here next Sunday to preach at morning and evening services they decided to ask him to speak at a temperance meeting in the afternoon also. The regular monthly meeting of the league should have been held last Sunday but it was postponed and J. H. Jones wrote to Rev. Pence asking him to speak to the leaguers.

Mr. Jones has received Rev. Pence's reply and the former pastor of the Presbyterian church has gladdened the hearts of the league workers by consenting to address the meeting on Sunday afternoon. His letter is a characteristic one. Among other things he says:

"You may rest assured that nothing could delight me more than to 'say a little something'—as our great and good friend Francis used to say. Put me down for a few remarks and now that I have a 'handle' to my watch it's not hard to keep within the limits of time. It's great business—this of living in this swift age. It is the business of the church, the Murphy League, the Y. M. C. A., etc., to put the air break on. We fellows supply air enough if we could only get it applied. Give my love to all the boys and tell them my fist is aching to grip them again. The old 'burg' looked natural enough the other day from the St. Paul station, except the new warehouses. Will see you on Sunday evening. We expect to run down on Saturday evening and come back Monday."

Rev. Pence and family are in camp at Camp Columbia, Lake Kegonsa. The allusion which he makes in his letter to the "handle" on his watch will be understood by those who remember that when he left his city the Francis Murphy League presented him with a handsome watch guard.

Although Rev. Pence authorizes Mr. Jones to put him down for a few remarks he will be the chief speaker of the afternoon. Splendid music will be secured, the meeting will be thrown open to all and the capacity of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium will doubtles be taxed to the limit.

ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC ADVANCE

No More Pain to Be Experienced in the Dental Chair.

For years the most advanced dentists have been seeking for some means of preventing the pain produced by drilling teeth. Means have been found that do away with the pain of extracting teeth, but nothing heretofore has proven surely effective in all cases, in removing the pain experienced in having a tooth prepared for a filling. At last a method has been discovered whereby this result is actually accomplished. This discovery makes a distinct advance in the ever progressive science of dentistry. We understand that its use has been secured by Dr. Richards, in the Hayes block, and what also is greatly to the point, he is giving his patients the invaluable benefits without any extra charge whatever.

ELECTRICAL STORM FRIGHTENS PEOPLE

Lightning Bolts Came Thick and Fast Yesterday Afternoon—Some Damage About the City.

The rain storm which struck here yesterday afternoon shortly before five o'clock was accompanied by heavy thunder and sharp lightning. In many cases where electric lights and telephones are in use, the people were given a scare by balls of fire coming in on the wires and burning out the safety fuses.

A ball of fire ran down the large telephone pole in front of C. D. Steven's grocery store on North Main street and caused his delivery horse standing near the pole to start out into the street.

A bolt of lightning also struck the large brick chimney at the upper cotton mill and a number of bricks were thrown into the street nearly over to L. B. Carle's warehouse. W. L. Carle was looking out of the window when the flash came and the flying bricks made him beat a hasty retreat to safer quarters.

The lightning also struck a barn at the home of Wililam Riley on Milwaukee avenue beyond the Fair Grounds. The building immediately took fire and was almost totally destroyed. Three tons of new hay and a quantity of corn and oats and some farm machinery were burned with the building. The loss was about $500 and was insured for $250 in Carter & Morses's agency.

The Colvin Baking Co's. delivery wagon in charge of F. E. Beard, was near Mr. Riley's when the storm broke. He drove into the barn for shelter and was there when the barn was struck. The wagon or ponies were not injured by the shock although one of them acted as if it was deafened by the report.

When Beard found the building was on fire he jumped into the wagon and drove down to box 35 at the corner of Miiwauke avenue and Sinclair street and turned in an alarm of fir.

The alarm sounded at the fire stations in the midst of one of the fiercest downpours of rain. This did not deter the fire boys from getting out in short order and making good time to the scene of the fire. It was found that the nearest hydrant was at the corner of Ruger avenue and Liberty street, about two thousand feet away and a call for the West Side hose team was sent in and with the additional hose a stream of water was brought up to the buildings. Mr. Riley's house stands close to the barn and was saved from burning by the timely arrival of the department. The house was somewhat scorched and will need repainting in several places.

The storm crossed Rock county in a southwesterly direction. It was the fiercest in the towns of Lima, Harmony, Janesville and Plymouth. Beloit and Clinton escaped entirely. At Lake Geneva the wind was severe and some damage was done.

What most people want is something mild and gentle, when in need of a physic. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets fill the bill to a dot. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by People's drug store and King's pharmacy.

New Parlor Cars.

Two parlor cars, named respectively "Janesville" and "Beloit," "spick and span new" from the builders have been received from the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and will be placed at once in the service for which they were expressly built—between Chicago, Janesville and Madison.

The new cars have an interior finish of mahogany and are seventy-five feet in length. The exterior is the St. Paul standard color. In addition to the usual parlor, seating thirty people, each has a large observation room, a state room and buffet. The latter, besides being fitted for ordinary buffet service, is equipped with a broiler, from which steaks, chops, etc., can be served.

The equipment in service on the St. Paul road to and from Southern Wisconsin points has received many favorable comments. The new cars—the handsomest so far built—will complete the finest day trains leaving Chicago.

The laws of health require that the bowels move once each day and one of the penalties for violating this law is piles. Keep your bowels regular by taking a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when necessary and you will never have that severe punishmend inflicted upon you. Price, 25 cents. For sale by People's drug store and King's pharmacy.

KAISER WATCHED AT BEDSIDE.

He Left His Dying Mother's Presence Only for Meals.

New York, Aug. 8.—A dispatch from Cronberg to the Herald gives the following hitherto unpublished details concerning the passing away of the dowager empress of Germany:

From 10 o'clock in the morning the Empress Frederick was totally unconscious and for several hours before her death physically so. Canon Teignmouth-Shore, the chaplain of King Edward and an old friend of the Empress Frederick, prayed long by the bedside, having come over at the summons of the emperor, who at the other side of the bed sat gravely and sorrowfully watching for the end, which all knew was approaching rapidly. The kaiser sat there almost constantly during the entire day, the death of the empress taking place at just 6 o'clock.

All the rest of the royal family, including the empress, passed frequently in and out of the room noiselessly, but the emperor sat there on and on from early morning, just leaving the bedside for meals.

The person most visibly affected, however, was the crown prince, who on this occasion probably came face to face with death for the first time. He looked utterly upset.

King Edward has received an enormous number of sympathetic messages from all parts of the world, says the London representative of the Tribune. The sultan of Turkey was the first to telegraph an expression of deep condolence with his majesty and similar messages have come from other foreign courts and their representatives in London. When the king arrived in London from Cowes he must have been strongly reminded of the sad days following the death of his mother last January. Thousands of people had assembled in the vicinity of the railway station as his majesty, accompanied by the queen and Princess Victoria, drove by on his way to Marlborough house, every man in the crowd removing his hat in token of sympathy with the royal mourners. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, Princess Victoria and Prince Nicholas of Greece, who is the guest of their majesties, will start for Homburg Friday to attend the funeral services of Empress Frederick, to be held in the presence of the family next Sunday.

Gunboat Ordered to Colon.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The Navy Department has ordered the gunboat Machias, now at Boston, to proceed to Hampton Roads and thence to Colon, at the eastern terminus of the Panama Railroad, to look after American interests there. This is in connection with the reports of disturbances and interruption of traffic at the isthmus.

WISCONSIN CHEESE FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Railroad men are much interested in a shipment of a car load of cheese from the northern part of the state to San Francisco, which is to pass through Milwaukee today. Ten years ago cheese shipments from this state to Los Angeles and San Francisco were common, but since that time many creameries have been established which supplied all the local trade, and even went so far, as was the case one week last year, to send a car load or two to New York. This naturaly resulted in a falling off of shipments from Wisconsin westward, and the only explanation for the call for the carload which goes through here this week seems to be that it was prompted by conditions due to drouth in the west.

Wisconsin will soon demonstrate again that it is the biggest cheese producing state in the union by making large shipments to all points, and especially the south. As soon as the negroes have received their pay as cotton pickers there will be an enormous movement of cheese in the cotton fields. This will begin about Sept. 1. Wisconsin shippers are at some disadvantage in this trade because the eastern and southern railroads have combined to make a rate from Little Falls, Utica and other points in New York state an eighth of a cent a pound cheaper than can be made from Wisconsin points to the south. A protest was entered some time ago against this discrimination, as the distance from New York was greater than from Wisconsin, but it availed nothing.

Bridges rivers, tunnels mountains, builds cities, gathers up the scattered rays of one's ability. That's what Rocky Mountain Tea does. 35c. Smith's pharmacy.

Young Girl Kills Her Brother.

Tuckerton, N. J., Aug. 8.—During the temporary absence from home of their parents the children of H. E. Hanly of this place secured a revolver and Ethel, aged 9, shot and killed her brother, Elmer, aged 5 years. The 38-caliber bullet entered and passed entirely through the boy's head.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Two Fires on the Majestic.

New York, Aug. 8.—The steamer Majestic arrived at its pier in the afternoon with many notable passengers on board. At 5:30 o'clock a. m. fire started in the linen-room in the "'tween deck" section. The crew was called to quarters and the fire apparently was extinguished. At 10 o'clock however, as the passengers were at luncheon in the saloon, clouds of smoke rolled in, causing them to retreat to the promenade deck. The crew was again called to the quarters, a single line of hose was attached to one of the fire plugs, the plank floor of the linen-room was torn up, and the smoldering fire was thoroughly extinguished.

Forest Fire In Oregon.

Baker City, Ore., Aug. 8.—A forest fire has broken out in the mountains back of the North Pole mine, near Bourne, and is now burning fiercely and threatens the mine property and a large body of fine timber. The fire is supposed to be the result of carelessness on the part of campers.

Read the following:

Mrs. S. L. Belden, of 64 S. River St says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrible dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work, and if I did any lifting my bladder became effected, causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headaches, which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co's. store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions.

WASHINGTON AS HE WAS AMONG THE MEN OF '76.

His Fine Physique and Strong Personality—Enmity Disarmed and Rivalry Dethroned by Calm Dignity of the Chief of the Army.

[Copyright, 1901, by G. L. Kilmer.]

WASHINGTON will be the subject of a ceaseless stream of eulogies, but no greater tribute ever has been or ever will be paid his memory than the placing of his name foremost when calling to mind the grandest Americans who ever lived. Others have added to the country's greatness, and still others to come will perhaps improve upon what has gone before. But of all except Washington it must be said, "America produced them." Washington, without a country, without a distinct nationality, towered above the great men of the earth, the father and the founder of a realm. Others had dreamed of republican independence for mankind. Washington, by his sword, and as much by his brain and heart as by his sword, made the dream of ages a reality.

Was Washington an accident? We say of Napoleon, of Lincoln, of Bismarck, that they were the products of their time. The age was ripe for them; they had to be. Nature has never been a bankrupt, and if men mighty in the battles of time are needed she has the material on hand; if not one, then another. But how select from among the figures of the Revolution another who, like Washington, had the firmness, the ardor and the dignity to stand as the leader of a struggling people?

In monarchies such as have ruled the earth from time immemorial there is a divinity about the throne, even when occupied by a nobody, which masters the minds of men and keeps them in awe. The American revolutionists threw that divinity and all the restraining force of the idea to the winds. They had no ruler, no constitution, no organized state. Who but Washington, through all the seven years' struggle from 1776 to 1783, through defeat and disaster, amid suffering and in the face of fierce political jealousies and disputes, stood for the idea of divinity, stood for the constitution, stood for the unorganized state?

Therein lies one of the marvels of nature's processes when dealing with human events. The American Revolution was a mighty original upheaval of ordinary mankind in a contest for liberty. The Declaration of Independence starts in as though its writers had an entirely new inspiration to set forth, "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary," and so on up to that brief but sweeping asseveration, "All men are created free and equal," smacks of primitive thought and feeling. There were masters of logic and of diction among those brilliant minds who voiced the people's thought and will in 1776. But they rested the cause upon a plain expression of grievances and resolutions. Every little farmer, every flatboatman, every backwoodsman, the humblest and most illiterate toiler of city or hamlet, thought the very thoughts which went into the Declaration in those choice and vigorous words. To read that earnest, pathetic and simple appeal to posterity and to fate, to think of the awful path to be trodden in order to reach the goal and to know Washington as he was is to feel that only that raw, calm, big brained and stalwart Virginia borderer was fitted to be the war god of the hour, to stand in the stead of king, to speak the will of the state, to rule men's souls with all the majesty of a fixed law.

The personal power of most little great men lies in the quality called magnetism. Washington had none of that, and he didn't need it. His face and his physique were at once striking and attractive. Measuring six feet two in his stockings, with a well developed figure and the strength that goes with a healthy six footer, his very stature compelled attention. The average man thinks that five feet ten is a special favor of nature and the man who reaches six feet a giant. Washington's countenance fitly crowned his stature. It was pleasing and benevolent, yet of a strength which kept men in a respectful awe of him. His features were always under perfect control, even when he was laboring under emotion. His voice was agreeable to listen to and his manner composed and dignified.

When Washington came to stand at the head of the army, a target for the eyes of the nation and for the scrutiny of envious or jealous colleagues, he had attained that success in life which gives a man an air of solid importance. He would not be wrecked by what most public men call failure. He would not be bankrupted by the loss of fortune as fortunes went in those days. He could live in the style becoming his position without accepting a dollar of the public money. Taking all in all, then, nature had made the leader of the Revolution a man without a peer to stand the test of time and trial and rally the people in that terrible struggle for national independence. No cheap victories, no half way successes, would satisfy this almost potentate from the queen of the rebelling colonies. Colonial soldiers, colonial statesmen and the soldiers and diplomats of foreign nations all unite in praising Washington's noble and lofty stature, his fine and striking countenance, his composed and awe inspiring demeanor.

The war of the Revolution lasted so long, with such intervals of battle calm, that one can hardly think of it as a storm. But the sea is not always in a state of fury, yet the rock against which the waves beat acquires its renown for solidity because of the occasional storms. So Washington was a rock, and storms which, when they came, might have wrecked the frail, unseasoned bark were divided and weakened by contact with his mighty personality.

It is difficult to imagine the "great and good George Washington" of tradition as being troubled or in danger through any petty enmities of the camp or the council. But, taking Washington as a man among men simply, the power of his enemies appears in a different light. General Gates was at first on the staff of Washington, where he could spy out all the weaknesses—for no man is without them—of his unsuspecting chief. As soon as he reached an independent command he advised that congress send a committee to the army to keep watch upon the commander. Washington was aware of this underhand work of his subordinate, and they once had an open interview about it. A French prince who described the meeting said, "Mr. Washington treated Mr. Gates with a politeness which had a frank and easy air, while the other responded with that shade of respect which was proper toward his general." In less than two years the "sincerest attachment" which Gates had early professed toward Washington had degenerated to a mere "shade of respect."

The Conway cabal gave to the Revolution its one noted and notorious court intrigue. Conway's friends were strong enough to have him elected by congress a major general in spite of Washington's opposition. He openly insulted Washington, and the gallant Cadwallader took up the quarrel for his friend and in a duel wounded Conway so desperately that he feared for his life and apologized for his baseness. The mere fact that this European adventurer could so far hypnotize the rulers of the government as to rival Washington for a time shows that the elements of a storm were not lacking, and only the sublime character and fortitude of the patriot soldier prevented a calamity.

From the start Washington was quick to detect and rebuke or even punish self seekers in the army. One of these, a famous Philadelphia surgeon who was among the "signers," became a most malignant enemy of Washington because in his capacity of general he gave an official opinion which without naming him reflected upon the doctor's public motives. General Charles Lee was another foreign adventurer who attempted to ruin Washington and also to betray the country. In congress there was a strong element which persisted in encouraging these army hostilities to Washington. John and Samuel Adams, Trumbull, William Williams, Sargent, Gerry and Chase, with Roger Sherman and R. H. Lee, openly criticised Washington's military policy.

The chief complaint was his Fabian methods. Yet he was aggressive when the times called for action.

With a fire in the rear it would have been marvelous for Washington to pass through seven years of warfare without personal animosity and jealousy showing themselves in camp. Even Hamilton came at last to think he could make his way independent of the personal friendship of the chief. But to the soldiers without burning ambition, heroes like Wayne and Sullivan and Morgan and Greene, as well as the rank and file, the head of the Continental army was an object of reverence which at times softened into personal love. His record from Braddock's field, where he had four bullets through his coat and two horses shot under him, was just the kind to please the wide awakes from Lexington, Bunker Hill and Ticonderoga. One day in battle an aid begged Washington not to expose himself so openly to the British bullets, saying, "Had you not better step back a little?" The answer was, "Colonel, if you are afraid, you have liberty to step back."

GEORGE WASHINGTON.
[From a painting after a Stuart original.]

He hated cowardice and above all the cowardice of a general who orders a retreat. It was anger over this which caused him to curse Lee at Monmouth. Whenever he wrote or spoke of cowardice it was to call it infamous, scandalous and the like.

As in the civil war, so in 1776 the day was not to be decided by holding positions nor by driving the enemy out of positions. The Revolution could only be kept alive by having unwhipped armies in the field. This mighty task Washington performed in spite of hunger and danger in the face of intrigue and against enormous odds in the field.

A PEEP

Into the future would sadden many a happy woman. The misery of marriage often results from ailments which maidenly modesty kept hidden. When doctors are at last consulted they frequently fail to help. They do not understand the root of the trouble. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has cured in thousands of cases where doctors entirely failed.

"I had been a great sufferer from female weakness," writes Mrs. M. B. Wallace, of Muenster, Cook Co., Texas. "I tried four doctors and none did me any good. I suffered six years, but at last I found relief. I followed your advice, and took eight bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and four of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I now feel like a new woman. I have gained eighteen pounds."

"Favorite Prescription"

MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG AND SICK WOMEN WELL.

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks Mother's Friend is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."—Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. Mother's Friend takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

THE PERFUME ..OF ROSES

BY VIRGINIA DARE.

The editor, entering his office, finds on his desk a parcel addressed in a feminine hand. He cuts the string, saying, "A book, no doubt." He removes the wrapper and finds a box, damp, as though water soaked. Raising the lid, he looks down, not upon a book, but flowers — glowing, fragrant roses, pink, crimson and white—lying in a nest of green leaves, their petals wet and shining as with dew; old fashioned roses, too, not the rare product of scientific culture, but the simple blossoms of village gardens. The stately pink, thousand leaf, the ruby sheen of a damask rose, the crimson glow of cabbage rose and the velvet petals of a white "bride"—all were there.

From his grave eyes, grown weary in looking at sooty walls and smoke clouded skies, the shadows steal away, and into them creeps a tender light, over them a mist falls, which is almost tears.

'Tis such a weary while since he has looked on such as these. Boyhood and youth in these days of strenuous life seem far away. He buries his face in the roses and—dreams. As he dreams the gates of memory swing open wide. Once more he sees the little river rippling along between its willow lined banks. He hears the whir of the old mill wheel as it turns and turns, and the hills look like high green walls, sweeping up and back from the village and river. It is evening. The sunset light gleams redly on the river's breast. Down the long street, driven by a towheaded urchin, come some sleek bodied cows, going to pasture, their bells tinkling gently as they move.

Through the thick foliage he catches a glimpse of white walls. His heart throbs fast. Within their shelter she dwells—she whom his heart holds dear.

Beside him a low whitewashed fence runs. At the gate he pauses. He pushes it gently. It opens, and before him lies a graveled path bordered with dear old time flowers close by the walk. The rich, spicy fragrance of clove and cinnamon pinks assaults the nostrils. Farther in are blue larkspurs, the graceful sweep of prince's feather, with the gold of bachelor buttons and purple columbine, "with folded wrapper where turtle doves dwell," marigolds and clear faced johnny jump ups and amorous sweet williams—a revel of color everywhere. And beyond the flowers an orchard of apple trees with squat, gnarled trunks, branches low hanging and laden with promise of fruit in the autumn.

In the orchard's midst is a low rambling house, with its encircling porch and wide, swinging casement. Behind the house are a vegetable garden and spacious barns—a picture of plenty. Clinging to the walls and crawling over porch roof, peering into windows, is a climbing rose, hanging weary with its weight of beauty. And at every corner roses—the modest sweet brier and all the old beauties. Here by his hand stands the queen of them all—a rare white moss rosé, white as snow, a faint pink tint in its fragrant heart. He always thinks of her when he looks at these roses. She is like the flower in her purity and loveliness. Under the eaves by the door he waits and listens, then knocks gently. His heart leaps at a gentle step and he thinks—

She is coming, my love, my sweet,
With ever so airy a tread.
My heart will awaken and beat—
Has it lain for a century dead?

In the wide doorway she stands. So silently she moves, he scarce knew her there. In her dear eyes so true, so sweet, there is a gladness which tells him his welcome—the welcome her lips are too shy to utter.

In her dark hair shine the velvety petals of a white moss rose, in one delicate hand she holds another; just as in his heart and life he holds her—his rose maiden.

The shadows of twilight infold them. Above them one by one the stars peep out. Across the river in the wood a whippoorwill calls plaintively; a clatter of wheels and hoof beats in the street—then silence.

They are so happy there in the old porch in the fragrant night. By and by he asks her to sing. He loves to hear her sing. Her voice is sweet and clear like a lark's notes.

She sings "Lorena," and he wonders why she chose so sad a song. He thought afterward he knew. How tenderly he clasped her hand through that last verse. Her voice trembled, too, as she sang:

There is a future, oh, thank God!
Of life this is so small a part.
'Tis dust to dust beneath the sod,
But there—up there—'tis heart to heart.

How clearly he can hear her voice now and the pathetic words! How soon it all ended and changed life for him! It is June here in the great hot city, but away up there among the hills of New England the little river is rippling and singing on its way to the sea. The air is perfumed from myriads of blossoms. He sees the old graveyard behind the little church. There the grasses sway and bend gently in the summer winds. The bees are humming drowsily, and over a fair white cross, which marks a narrow grave, a white moss rose bows its lovely head, and the old fashioned roses are all blooming there. And as June follows June they spread a pall of sweet petals over her place of rest.

How he wishes to go to hear—"Copy, sir," says a voice in his ear. The roses fall gently, and he comes back once more to "the cares of day."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

be sent out, still I can say that the child is born and this is to be no child's play. It will be a fight all along the line.

"There was nothing said as to the candidates in the meeting today. Our purpose is to get an organization which will fight for the control of the party.

"We will make a fight for the control of the convention and if we win we will nominate our ticket from top to bottom. We are not, however, going to have a repetition of what it was a year ago when there was no opposition. We're going to organize in every precinct in the state, and we will make a thorough canvass of the state."

The Bears' Whiskers.

Whiskers have been tabooed at the Philadelphia zoo, and a crusade against them will shortly be started. Within a few days the keepers will trim the bears' mustaches, which have grown very long and annoy the beasts.

The whiskers have curled around so far as to tickle the bears every time they move their heads. The hairs are fully eight inches in length and caused one bear to cut himself so badly with his claws in trying to push them away that the keepers feared for a time that serious results would follow.

The trimming of the bears' whiskers will require several days and is a dangerous operation. Each bear has to be cornered and placed in a cage so small that in it he is unable to move. The objectionable whiskers are then trimmed with long shears. The position of zoo barber is not much sought after.

The animals often struggle and fight until exhausted before they will submit to the operation, and it takes all the patience of the keepers to bring it through successfully.—Philadelphia Press.

The Making of Spools.

The making of spools and the sawing of the wood for them have assumed such immense proportions that they are classed among the leading industries of Maine. Not all the spool bars sawed in Maine are made into spools within the state, but are shipped to Europe. About 15,000,000 feet are sent across the water annually, chiefly to Scotland, one-half of the total being shipped by one concern in Bangor, almost all in steamships.—Washington Post.

A Second Dead Sea.

M. Sven Hedin has discovered a second Dead sea in the highlands of Thibet, a vast lake so impregnated with salt that indigenous life is out of the question. It was impossible for him to get his boat close to the shore, so that he and his companions had to wade out two boats' lengths before she would float, and this was sufficient to bring a thick coating of salt on their legs and clothes. The entire bed of the lake appeared to consist of salt.

The Kazoo

is simply a Hose Supporter and Suspender combined; so arranged that the strain is equal back and front, thereby avoiding the suspender slipping off the shoulder or drawing up behind, or down in front, thus it can be used either as a supporter or a suspender. The hose attached is adjusted by a slide and a snap loop, thereby avoiding the necessity of adjusting the hose each time the boy dresses.

The Kazoo

Simply place the fastenings on the hose at the desired points, then leave them thus placed till the hose are changed, merely detaching from the suspender part as shown in cut of boy dressing.

They are made in sizes from 4 to 14. Price 50 cents and 75 cents according to quality. The Kazoo will outwear a half dozen pair of ordinary supporters.
